

World Goes Round

You get up get ready for work you've got a big day
Your wife kisses you, your daughter begs you to stay but as you turn the knob and start to walk out that front door Your wife presents you with a gift that you weren't waiting for.
And the world goes round and round
the world goes round and round
You try to reason with her but she leaves you out in the cold with your daughter in your arms and your pride there on the floor.
You shake your head in disbelief, your dream of love is gone.
The little one has seen it all not knowing what went wrong.
And the world goes round and round
the world goes round and round

Blind sided by a love you thought would last
you done everything you could but undone her past Blind sided by a love you thought would last
you done everything you could but undone her, but undone her past.

She took the car, the house, and all your money to all the things you worked hard for nothing left for you No time to think about it , you're already late for work so you pick up all your troubles, your daughter, and the hurt.
And the world goes round and round
and the world goes round and round

Blind sided by a love you thought would last
you done everything you could but undone her past
blind sided by a love you thought would last
you done everything you could but undone her, but undone her past

You get up get ready for work you got a big day
you fix your daughter breakfast and she begs you to stay.
and the world goes round and round
and the world goes round and round
and the world goes round and round
and the world goes round and round